

At Falls Church HS – Sportsmanship Is In Our Game Plan

The Falls Church High School Jaguar Football program has been rebuilding itself. After having several of its players graduating and going on to college ball over the last couple of years (Marcus Hughes at Duquesne, Kevin Mulumba at Ohio-Wesleyan, Patrick Williams at Virginia Tech) the roster needed some time to rebuild. During that process, new head coach Said Aziz has been stressing the importance of sportsmanship to his players. Hired just last year for the Jaguars, Coach Aziz is a firm believer in character. Coach Aziz and his staff knows that the players have put in tremendous hard work and faced numerous obstacles. Despite some of the uphill climb, they have maintained a positive attitude and keep pushing forward. Their attitude and hard work were noticed by the Northern Virginia Football Officials Association (NVFOA) as they were just selected as the 2011 NVFOA Sportsmanship Award recipient. The program will be officially receiving this award next week at FCHS.
