

In ancient China there were no banks. Coins had a hole in the middle and people strung their money together with a string. Some money was even shaped like a knife.

by Mrs. Widmaier