Deadline: Rough Draft

Due: 3/24 at the start of class

Directions:

You need to write your rough draft of your article. It should be a minimum of 150 words and a maximum of 350. It needs to be typed out. You will need access to an electronic copy so either:

- a) Send it to yourself as an attachment in an email
- b) Upload it to blackboard and add it to your digital drop box
- c) Bring it on a portable media, such as a flash drive (also called a thumb drive)

You will also need your source documents. This will either be a printout of the original document (because you are smart and emailed all relevant documents to yourself!) or will be the handwritten notes from one of the books on the cart.

As part of the deadline, you will do the same highlighting of the information that you actually gathered from the source(s). While it is expected that you will “embellish” or make up some of the information to create a believable, interesting article, you will also need to use factual information in your article.
