_____ My child does well in a more informal instructional setting with frequent opportunities to work in groups and move about the classroom in a more open-ended instructional format. Spontaneous activities may dictate classroom structure and there may be frequent activity changes.

_____ My child does well in a more structured classroom with more teacher directed activities. My child needs clear expectations and predictable routines with an emphasis on task completion. My child needs frequent reminders about work habits with frequent teacher follow-up and will work well in a quiet orderly atmosphere.

_____ My child needs a flexible and changing student grouping with a productive noise level. My child works best in a classroom where students are involved in the planning process and where children are held responsible and accountable for behaviors (making choices about their actions). My child will do well in a classroom where the teacher drives instruction, but learning activities also occur spontaneously.

_____ My child will do well with any of these structures.
