

Summer Assignment for Advanced Placement World History
(Stand Alone and World Civilizations II)
Summer 2009

Read the book, Lost Names: Scenes from a Korean Boyhood by Richard E. Kim, University of California Press, 1998.

You can purchase a copy of the book or borrow a copy from the library.

As you read Lost Names, be thinking about the themes you find in the book that can be related to the empires and civilizations you learned about in World Civilizations I or in World History and Geography I. Some possible themes might include foreign domination by one culture over another, cultural pride, survival, personal dignity and responsibility.

During the second week after school begins in September, be prepared to take a reading quiz on the book and write a short essay.

Questions regarding this assignment should be directed to any of the AP World History Teachers:
