Most materials are focused on grades 4-8 though the worksheets are not meant to conform to any rigid instructional level. Use the worksheets in ways that best meet your own child's needs.

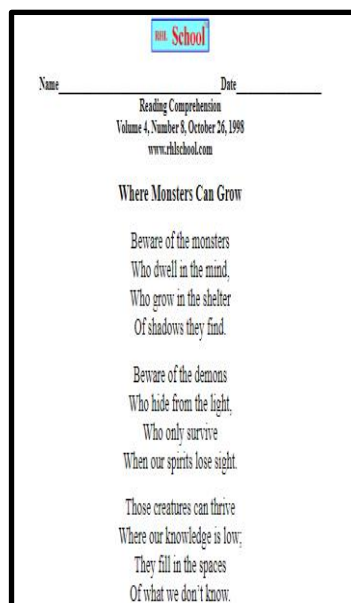

Some students might do a worksheet independently before a follow-up discussion; others can benefit from various degrees of assistance.

The screenshot shows the RHL School website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, English, Math, Reading, Research, Keys, Newsworthy, Links, and Contact. The main heading is "Reading Comprehension" in a large, blue, serif font. Below the heading, there is a sub-heading: "Featuring free reading comprehension worksheets for teachers and parents to copy for their kids. They include original stories, poems, essays, and articles. They are most appropriate for upper elementary through middle school years." To the right of this text is an image of a stack of books. Below the sub-heading, there is a question: "What are the instructional levels of these worksheets?" and a link: "NEWSWORTHY: START YOUR DAY HERE > Martin Luther King Jr."

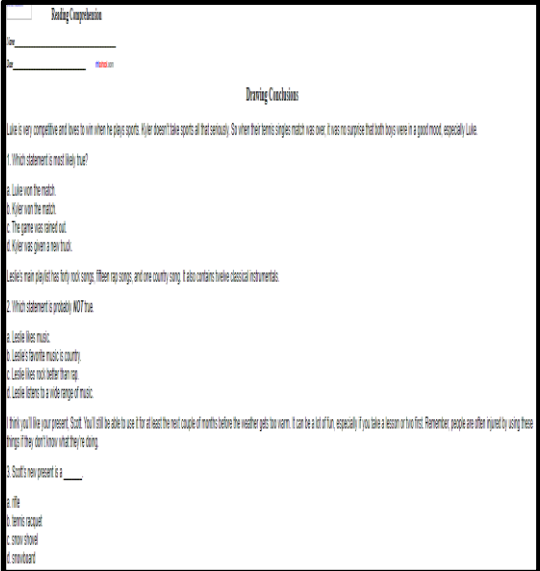

The screenshot shows a list of reading comprehension worksheets on the RHL School website. Two red arrows point to the titles "Where Monsters Can Grow" and "A Tribute to 'Neville' (Thank You, Stacey)".

The screenshot shows a reading comprehension worksheet titled "Where Monsters Can Grow". At the top, there is a form for "Name" and "Date". Below the form, the text reads: "Reading Comprehension Volume 4, Number 8, October 26, 1998 www.rhlschool.com". The main title is "Where Monsters Can Grow". The text of the poem is: "Beware of the monsters Who dwell in the mind, Who grow in the shelter Of shadows they find. Beware of the demons Who hide from the light, Who only survive When our spirits lose sight. Those creatures can thrive Where our knowledge is low, They fill in the spaces Of what we don't know."
